More Fighting Expected at Any Moment at Manila.

Gen. Miller Should Have Begun Attack Upon Iloilo.

guinaldo Must Be "Eliminated" to Settle the Matter-Agoncillo Had a Hand in it-Terrible Losses, More Casualties,

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That there will be more fighting in the vicinity of Manila is now the opinion of experts in the War Department, although official news has been meager. It is understood that the insurgents now are concentrating at a point on the railroad about twelve miles from Manila, and the next clash will be there.

The insurgents have been retreating along the line of the Dagupan Railway, to the north and slightly east, and are now penetrating the rich valley of Luzon, where hills on either side make it favorable territory for guerrilla warfare, while the valley supplies

It is the belief here active hostilities will not cease until Aguinaldo in per-son, as an element of the situation, has been eliminated. This is the polite way of saying that he must be killed or taken prisoner before the fighting will be ended. The people whom he is leading are near enough to savages to group themselves about his strong per-sonality. Once his figure has been re-moved, it is believed the rebellion will disintegrate.

Dispatches from Gen. Otis, received today, confirm the belief, prevailing here, that the attack of the insurgents one week ago yesterday, which was the beginning of the present hostilities, was precipitated by advices from Washington. In connection with the flight of Agoncilio to Canada before the news of the fight at Manila was received by the War Department, this renders of no force the denials and disclaimers of the Filipino junta.

Gen. Otis is a cautious officer, without positive information would not have sent to Washington a statement that from this city the insurgents were advised to drive out the Americans before reinforcements arrived, and presumably before the vote on the peace reaty was taken.

The limit of time in which Gen. Miller was to take Iloilo has expired, and War Department officials are now awaiting advices telling of the success of army and navy against the second city of the archipelago. The attack may have taken place yesterday or the day before, but certainly was not de-layed beyond this morning, as Gen. Otls sent instructions which fixed the

GATHERING AT MALABON.

Rebels are Now There in Force Their Heavy Losses.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

MANILA, Feb. 12, 4:50 p.m.—[By Asiatic Cable.] Contrary to general expectations, all is quiet along the lines, nothing having happened up to this hour to disturb the peace of Sunday in

The inhabitants have generally recovered from the alarm occasioned by the fear of a native uprising, and are resuming their ordinary business. The shipping interests are naturally suf-fering, since there have been no clear-ances for Philippine ports for a week, but on the other hand, foreign shipping nas increased, especially for Hongk every steamfer bound thither being crowded with timid refugees.

Despite this quietude, however, many are asking whether the problem is not still far from solution. A week ago those are asking whether the problem is not still far from solution. A week ago those who took an optimisti eview predicted that the terrible lesson just administered to the rebels would settle the question of Filipino independence. But this prediction has not been fulfilled. As a matter of fact, the rebels are now scattered throughout the country bushwhacking, except at Malabon, where they are gathering in force. Even there their methods savor more of guerrilla than of civilized warfare, every bush, clump of trees and tree furnishing cover for sharpshooters.

Unfortunately, for miles around the land is studded with bamboo jungle, and open spaces are few and far between. This affords the natives, who fight better under cover, a distinct advantage. Under such conditions, it is remarkable that the American casualties should be few, while the number of dead natives found in the brush after every skirmish testifies to the precision of our fire. Last week there was not a single day without fighting, but the Americans steadily advanced, carrying everything before them.

It is now known that the Filipino loss is fully 2500 killed, with wounded day without fighting, but the Americans steadily advanced, carrying everything before them.

It is now known that the Filipino loss is fully 2500 killed, with wounded vastly in excess of that number, and thousands are held prisoners. All this has been achieved at a cost of sixty-five Americans killed and 276 wounded. There were twenty-five Americans missing and unaccounted for. No fewer than ten of the native villages have surrendered or been captured. Several have been destroyed because their houses harbored men, frequently disguised in female attire, who shot from windows and roofs at the Americans. Many rifles and a ton of ammunition have been selzed. As might be expected, there has been looting in the outskirts, but it has not been general, and has been done in direct violation of orders.

port spread rapidly that the American warships were bombarding Malabon.
Today crowds have visited the scenes of last week's fighting. All the roads from the city were thronged with vehicles. But beyond burned villages and new mounds in the fields, there was little to be seen. Inspection showed that most of the enemy's dead had remained at their posts to the last, as the bodies were usually surrounded by empty cartridges, while in the trenches, wherever there were dead, there was little and often no ammunition.

Among the distinguished prisoners captured in Manila since the outbreak of hostilities are Capt. A. G. Escamillo, Aguinaldo's private secretary; Capt. E. R. Veragurth, Col. Martin de los Reyes and Señor Tomas del Rosario, a member of the so-called Filipino congress, in session at Malolos. Other Filipino officers are also in custody.

The United States is now for the first time the country from which France imports the greatest amount of goods Great Britain coming second on the list, with f.484,709,000. Hitherto Great Britain has been at the top of the list as the largest exporter to France.

FEELING SUBSIDE Hosty Cubans Realize That They Were in the Wrong.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

HAVANA, Feb. 12 .- [By West Indian Cable.] The feeling which existed among the Cubans toward Gov.-Gen. Brooke over the question of precedence in the line of the funeral procession of Gen. Calixto Garcia on Saturday has moderated very greatly, owing to the explanations that have been made and most of the ill-humor now is directed against the Cuban generals, who hastily took offense where none was intended, and ordered the Cuban soldiers to leave and themselves retired. The other generals are disposed to blame Gen. Andrade for ordering the soldiers not to march.

The leading generals and the members of the Cuban assembly, which is composed of military men. held a meeting and debated the subject until 2 o'clock Sunday morning. A number of strong speeches were made against the Americans, and it was decided to appoint a commission to investigate the occurrence, and determine whether or not the conduct of the Governor-General constituted a ground of offense. The commission will report on Tuesday next.

COMMISSION'S WORK. The commission organized on September 24, electing Gen. Grenville M. Dodge president, Hon. Charles Denby, vice-president, and Richard Weightman, secretary. Gen. James A. Beaver was designated to conduct the exam-mation of witnesses; Lieut.-Col. F. B. Jones, chief quartermaster of volunteers, was detailed by the War Department as disbursing officer, and Maj. Stephen C. Mills, U.S.A., was appointed by the President as recorder. On Monday, September 28, the commission convened in regular session. Arrangements were made to admit to the rooms six journalists, three of them representing the three established press associations. Having only two press associations. Having only two rooms at their disposal, the commission could not throw these open to the public indiscriminately. All the newspapers in the country, however, had access, through the press associations, to the examination of witnesses, and the American people were sorved in access, through the press associations, to the examination of witnesses, and the American people were served, in respect to the proceedings of the commission, exactly as they are served in all other matters of public interest from day to day.

Among the first acts of the commission was to ask the Secretary of War, the adjutant-general, the quartermaster-general, the commissary-general and the surgeon-general to transmit all the complaints received by them touching the administration of their respective departments. This request was promptly complied with, and from that time forth, all complaints were forwarded to the committee immediately upon their receipt at the War Department. In further pursuance of this preparatory measure, the commission on September 27 made a public invitation through the press to all persons having knowledge or belief of any official wrong or derelection to submit their statements in writing, accomsons having knowledge or belief of any official wrong or derelection to submit their statements in writing, accompanied by such collateral proof or information as might be at their disposal. This invitation met with a liberal response. Hundreds of affidavits, letters, newspaper clippings, editorial articles and sermons, were received, all of which were thoroughly and laboriously investigated, as will appear in the testimony taken by the commission, and the various exhibits and appendices to be published hereafter.

Next, the Secretary of War was requested to direct the various chiefs of departments under him to furnish the commission with a statement of the condition of their respective departments at the outbreak of the war and the operations of the same during the mobilization of troops, and their organization; the amount and kind of (CONTINUED ON THIRD PAGE.)

SPECIFIC CHARGES. Having thus arranged the prelimi nary matters which seemed advisable to be determined, the commission re to be determined, the commission re-solved that all charges specifically brought before it should be made the basis of the examination of the wit-pesses who had or professed to have knowledge of the facts involved in such charges.

It was further determined that in the examination of witnesses the strict rules of evidence as applied in legal knowledge of the facts involved in such charges.

It was further determined that in the examination of witnesses the strict rules of evidence as applied in legal proceedings should not be adhered to, but considerable latitude should be allowed. While, therefore, in general, the rules of evidence have been followed we have not hesitated to relax their, application when thought advisable.

During our examinations we have examined 485 witnesses, All of these were sworn or affirmed except one, who declined to take the oath. The chief examination was conducted by the member designated for that purpose, but each witness was interrogated by every member of the commission who desired to do so.

Our purpose in the discharge of our duties was to arrive at the facts touching the conduct of the war, and no effort was spared by us to reach that result. We have examined the Secretary of War, the commanding general, heads of departments, officers of corps, divisions, brigades, regiments and companies, non-commissioned officers and privates, nurses and persons from many employments in private life. No man nor woman who has stated to us that he or she had any material matter touching the subject of our inquiry to communicate has been refused a hearing.

All the members of the commission have been engaged in taking testimony. It has happened that sub-committees have been occupied in hearing witnesses at four different places at the same time. The commission visited in person most of the old camps. As a rule the inspection was not only of camps, but of troops and supplies, and much valuable information was obtained by contact with officers and enlisted men.

At all of these places we have invited, sometimes with special insisttained by contact with officers and enlisted men.

At all of these places we have invited, sometimes with special insistence, every person to come before us and testify who could throw any light on the conduct of the War Department in any of its branches. Any charge of corruption or intimation of fraud or pribery in connection with the letting of any contract, even a hint of wrong-doing, has been carefully investigated. NO EVIDENCE OF DISHONESTY.

It may be said now, at the beginning of this report that there has been no evidence before us that any one in or connected with the War Department of this report, that there has been evidence before us that any one in or connected with the War Department has dishenestly received a doNâr. We have made persistent efforts to secure the attendance of persons to whose names rumor had attached an allegation that they knew of corruption of officials in the War Department, but these men have either denied the statements attributed to them, or have maintained silence when invited to tell what they knew.

Before proceedings to a specific description of the conduct and management of the war, the report gives comments and suggestions touching certain matters which came under consideration as a logical consequence of the inquiry pursued by the commission. Referring to the question of retired officers, the report says:

"Under existing laws the officers of the army are retired when they reach the age of 64. We have had before us many suggestions made by officers on the retired list, who are men of experience and distinction, that this law should be so amended as to give to the President the right to call into active service any retired officer during the time of war. This right exists as to the retired officers of the navy, and it seems to us there is no reason why it should not be extined to embrace retired army officers.

"It does not appear reasonable that an arbitrary law should prevent, during the existence of war, the use of experience dmen merely on account of their age. We think it would be wise to make it discretionary with the President to use the officers on the retired list for filling positions during war and not trench on the executive organization that may be needed in the field.

"During the recent war many positions were filled by the appointment of experience in the recent war many positions were filled by the appointment of that may be needed in the field. "During the recent war many positions of hostilities.

This communication recited in detail the subjects upon which information is desired, comprising facts touching the mobilization of troops, and their organization; the amount and kind.

of Steamship Subsidy Bill is Sealed-Nicaragua Canal Bill in Doubt-The Appropriation Bills Knock All the Others Out.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—The promesed effort on the part of the Committee on Military Affairs to get immedia ate consideration of the Army Reormportant feature of the proceedings f the Senate during the present week. Lines are divided very sharply on this bill, and the contest over its con-sideration will unquestionably be both fierce and stubborn. The Republican members of the committee manifest a strong determination to press the bill regardless of all other measures, and regardless of all other measures, and their first effort will be to secure consent from the Committee on Appropriations to set the appropriation bills aside until the Army Reorganization Bill can be disposed of. They argue that it is useless to proceed with the appropriations, especially those for the army, until they know how large the army will be. They also urge that there is far greater necessity for legislation increasing the size of the army than for the appro-priation of money to meet the govern-ment expenditures. Said Senator Warren of the Military Committee, in discussing this matter:

"The present appropriations hold good until the 1st of next July, while the volunteer army will necessarily be disbanded as soon as the peace treaty is signed by the Spanish authorities. We will then be in a ridiculous plight with all our new possessions on our hands and our forces reduced to such an extent that we will not be able to even man our guns in this country, unless we get an increase of the army. It is absurd to say that any temporary expedient would answer the purpose. You cannot find men to enlist in the regular army at $13 a month, unless they are sure of steady-employment."

DEMOCRATS WILL RESIST. ussing this matter:

DEMOCRATS WILL RESIST. The Democrats not only on the Military Committee, but throughout the Senate, will resist any effort to get the Army Bill through. They say, however, they will not try to prevent con-sideration of the bill. In speaking of this point, Senator Jones of Arkansas sald: 'If the Republicans want to take the sive attention of the Senate for the remainder of the session.

It is not absolutely decided that the Committee on Appropriations would voluntarily retire in the interest of the Army Bill. They may, however, step aside for a few days in order to give the promoters of the military measure an opportunity to test the temper of its opponents. There are at present only two appropriation bills before the Senate, so that the time for the experiment is not unpropitious. These are the Agricultural and Military Academy bills, and both can be before the Senate, so that the time for the experiment is not unpropitious. These are the Agricultural and Military Academy bills, and both can be disposed of in very short order unless there should be extraneous opposition to them.

The Army Bill has not yet been reported to the Senate, but there will be an all-day session of the Committee on. Military Affairs on Monday with the hope of concluding the consideration of the bill in committee, and of having it ready to report on Monday or Tuesday. The probabilities, are, however, that it will not get into the Senate before Wednesday. The probability of an effort to force its consideration will, however, make it almost as much a basis of proceedings as if it were in the Senate itself, as everything will be done with reference to this point so long as the purpose of pressing its consideration is manifest.

M'ENERY'S, RESOLUTION.

M'ENERY'S. RESOLUTION. Another question which bids fair to provoke considerable controversy is that involved in Senator Hawley's tor Mason's projection at 2:30 o'clock he McEnery resolution at 2:30 o'clock l'uesday. Senator Hawley had objected to the consideration of this question when it came up Saturday, and he was absent when the agreement was when it came up Saturday, and he was absent when the agreement was reached.

Several other Senators who also will oppose the McEnery resolution, including Senator Platt of Connecticut, were absent, and Senator Hawley's motion for a reconsideration was made after consultation with them. There are very few instances on record in which effort has been made to deviate from a unanimous agreement, and there is little doubt that Senator Mason will strenuously resist this attempt.

HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS.

HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS.

The House will have little or no time during the remaining three weeks of the session to devote to anything except appropriation bills. Yet there are a number of measures of great importance which will press for consideration. Much pressure is being brought upon the Committee on Rules for another day for the passage of the public buildings bills, to which the House last week devoted two days in committee of the whole, and at the request will probably be acceded to, but hardly during the coming week.

The announcement of Chairman Cannon that there was no time to consider the Steamship Subsidy Bill and the Nicaragua Canal Bill settles the fate of the former. The friends of the latter are to try a flank movement by attempting to attach the Canal Bill te HOUSE APPROPRIATIONS.

Time must be given for the consideration of the bill for the gov-ernment of Hawaii, but it also, for the present, must give way to the appromust give way to the app present, must give way and the present priation bills. Five of the great annual budgets still remain unacted upon by the House and as they are the most important of the appropriation bills, it will require practically all the remainder of the session to put them through and consider the conference reports upon the other appropriation bills as they are brought. This will undoubtedly prove to be the case if the opposition shows a disposition to debate the various propositions as they are brought into the arena. And this seems altogether likely.

The threat of an extra session appears to hold no terrors for the Democrats and the Populists; indeed, some of them would apparently welcome it, especially if it were called to increase the size of the regular army.

As an unembarrassed proposition the Nicaragua Bill would doubtless command a very strong majority in the House, but with the power of the Appropriations Committee and the threat of a bond issue thrown in the balance against it, and the likelihood that to get a direct vote upon it will require a reversal of the ruling of the chair, it is exceedingly doubtful whether it can carry.

Work of Joint High Commission 1 About to Terminate [BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12 .- [Exclusive Dispatch.] The demand for the cession of Skaguay, Alaska, to Canada, which has been made by Great Britain and refused by the United States, may terminate the work of the Joint High Commission, which has been engaged for six months on a new commercial treaty between the United States and Canada. There has been a hitch in the proceedings of the commission for several days. The Canadians have complained that the United States was getting the best of the bargain.

A hurried meeting of the Canadian Cabinet was held in New York a few days ago, and its commissioners were instructed to demand the cession Skaguay as a condition precedent to fu-ture negotiations. This demand was made formally by the commissioners esterday, Sir Wilfrid Laurier repeated it informally during a call upon Presi dent McKinley.

American commissioners me last night and refused absolutely to consider the demand. The American commissioners assume that as Great ritain's object in obtaining possession of Skaguay is for the purpose of per-mitting free entry and export of her goods to and from Canada, the United States would be willing to go so far as to insert in the proposed treaty a pro-vision which would practically admit of joint control in such matters, though leaving Skaguay American territory. will not suit the Canadians, be cause it is said to be the real object of Great Britain in gaining control of Skaguay to fortify it as a base from which military operations could, if hacessary, be projected.

The American commissioners have steadily maintained the interest of the

AFRAID TO VENTURE

BULLA WOULD SOON GO DOWN IN OPEN CAUCUS.

Senatorial Candidates are Willing, but Their Followers are not So Ready.

GRANT WOULD LEAD BY FAR.

BURNS COULD NOT BE IN IT IN THE LIGHT OF DAY.

Proposition Meets With Less Favor the More it is Studied by the Men on the Field-One

Flaw Evident,

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.] SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12.-[Exclusive Dispatch.] The open caucus scheme advocated by a local newspaper with little favor the more it is studied. Not that the candidates, with the exception of Bulla, are themselves willing, according to their own assertions, to make a trial of strength in the open, but their followers are not so ready to lock horns as the chiefs

Experience in the caucus which nominated Anderson for Speaker, where Chairman Dibble withheld his an-nouncement of the result until after the change of Atherton's vote had been effected by Anderson, and experience yesterday in the joint convention, wher pairs between Burns and Grant men were hastily declared off, lest the Democrats should manage to gain additional votes and elect a Senator, have caused a feeling of distrust on the part of the anti-Burns men, no matter whose camp they belong to, as to any departure from the beaten path.

Thus the anomalous situation may be created, of leaders trying to bring their followers into caucus, which the latter do not approve. One thing is certain, candidates having but one or two votes are not likely to consent to be wiped off the list at one wipe, and, contrary to reports at Grant headquarters last night. Bulla has refused from the start to consent to an open caucus proposition, his excuse being that such conference." as he calls it, would result in crimination and recrimination, and instead of prducing harmony, would make confusion worse confounded.

The real secret of Bulla's objection be the second or third to be dropped from the roll, if a motion prevailed that the candidate having the lowest vote on each ballot should drop out. There is little question that under such an arrangement Bulla would lose sev-eral votes and fall behind Barnes, who would be the next to go, leaving the fight, as it is now, between Burns and While Senator Smith of Bakersfield accused of harboring the belief that lightning might strike him in the event of a break, he would stand no show on this low-vote-drop-out plan, as it would be impossible for him to muster sufficient strength at the start to keep him in the race. To do Smith justice, he does not admit that he has ambitions toward the Senatorship, but says, on the contrary, that he will vote for Grant to the last.

While Mr. Grant has declared him-self favorable to open caucus, he has very sensibly refused to be a party to anything that would bind his follo ers to an action contrary to their best judgment. As has been said, many legislators, including some Grant men, do not favor a caucus on the line pro-posed, any more than they favor a secaucus. They figure that out of eighty-five Republican votes in taint convention, a sufficient number refuse to go into caucus on the rlan proposed to reduce the number necessary to constitute a majority of the caucus, and that Burns would brofit most by this reduction. With the full eighty-five votes there would be little doubt of Burns's defeat.

Many legislators seem to be in the frame of mind which used to be ascribed to the opponents of John L. Sulting they are afraid before they entired on the ice off Lake Forest and two the ice of Lake For tration, the Southern Pacific Railroad, the State Central Committee, county political rings, boodle and bushwhac Sullivan, to strike a blow that w fell an ox, if he can get the ox in a corner where he wants him.

The Times correspondent has broached the open caucus proposition to members of the various camps, and has impressed some of them consider-

"It means thirteen votes out of the anti-Burns column," so those members anti-Burns do not comprehend the full man was drowned.

A coal lighter has foundered off Cromer. Norfolk country, and five of her crew were drowned. It is feared that the loss of the British steamer Arno, which foundered in the gale off Nab relations of Bullaites to Burns, "and with thirteen out and the 'little lightning-rod man' also out, it would give Burns too much show on the face of the re turns. As they stand at present, Burns would only need three to five votes, provided members from other camps went to them equally, to put Grant or the short end, and we don't se

> But there is one flaw in the argument. In open caucus with anything like a full vote, Grant should lead Burns in a greater degree than at present. It is only in the dark, where halfent. It is only in the dark, where half-hearted members can conceal their faces from their constituents, that the magnetic influence known to Burns would steal into them and open their > mouths in favor of Candelaria Dan. While it is the opinion in some quar-ters tonight that Bulla will eventually yield if he finds the other candidate likely to go into conference without him, the general opinion is that he has shown the white feather and has declared, as strongly as if in words, that even if such caucus would break the deadlock and give the people a candidate satisfactory to them, he does not intend to lend his support so long as that candidate is not himself.

Senator Taylor of Alameda is hatch. ing a plan to unite the Barnes and Bulla forces, if possible, but his plans will fail utterly if they include the withdrawal of Bulla, while Barnes, who would gain over Bulla in open caucus, would be foolish to consent to yield to Bulla at this stage. Burns men are, of course, claim date, who professes to believe that open caucus is the very thing he has been looking for. He makes a show of great indignation because he is accused of wanting a secret ballot, and he ex-pressed gratification on learning that Grant had not refused to join in the movement. Some of Daniel's followers say that an open caucus will surely be had, and that the breaking of the deadlock will come at noon Wednesd when Burns will be elected Senator Wednesday But they are counting without their host, as has been said before, there are a large number of members who can not be dragged into secret caucus at al nor into open caucus, unless it in-cludes all Republicans, therefore all efforts will be concentrated toward getting them all together, or preventor. Hatch has found Milton J. Green' condition so unsatisfactory that he has advised his removal to his home in Oakland. Green's temperature has been

There are many, however, who insist that no good can come from an executive meeting of the Republican delegation. believe that the members are not so cowardly as to wish to conceal from their constituents the way they vote in this important matter. They want the vote of each man put on record.

That the plan for a caucus as proposed in the Record-Union yesterday morning has attracted much attention, and has had a tendency to stir up the members, cannot be denied. There is little doubt that the shaking up will result in a shifting of lines, but in what way cannot be told until the shifting has taken place.

It has been proposed that a meeting of the Republican members be held, and that after each of the several ballots that shall be taken the lowest man in the Senatorial race shall drop out. It is the opinion of many that such a caucus would result in the election of Col. Eurns or Mr. Grant, since these two gentlemen at present stand first in the race, and are appearently these two gentlemen at present stand first in the race, and are apparently having no trouble to hold their votes. It is thought that the whole of the scattering vote would not go to any one candidate, and that in the event of a caucus of any kind, Grant and Burns would command the situation. Which would stand in second place at the end of the last ballot is the question.

and Powerless to Save the Victims-8ix Lives Lost There by Fire in 1882.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] YANKTON (S. D.,) Feb. 12.-A most norrifying fire occurred this morning at 2 o'clock at the State Asylum for the Insane, when one of the cottages was completely gutted and caused the loss of the lives of seventeen inmates.
The names of the missing are:
AUGUSTA BOERST,

JULIA ERICKSON. LOKKEN MARGARET LYNCH, JOSINA OBEN, MARTENIA TENNYSON, ELIZABETH S. TOPLE, MRS. KAMPANI, MAGGIE FLYNN, LUCINDA GOSSAGE. ADELINA HURLEY, CHRISTINA JOHNSON, JENNIE KRONIG. LUCIA KEENE, CAROLINE LINDBORG. KATIE PLAVITZ, CAINIE SWANSON.

The cottage was erected of stone and granite walls with wooden interior, and intended for laundry purposes. Owing to the crowded condition of the main building, forty of the female patients were placed in the laundry basement The fire originated in the dryroom of the laundry. Here there was a coil of the laundry. Here there was a coil of steam pipes, and the theory is that either fine particles similar to lint set-tled on the pipes and ignited, or that clothes which were thickly hung close by dropped on the pipes and were fired. The fighting of the fire was greatly hindered by loss of power. The only source of water was an artesian well 400 feet distant, the pipes for pumping which ran through the cottage. The intense heat soon caused these pipes intense neat soon caused these pipes to burst, thus leaving the firemen without power, and dependent entirely upon the direct pressure from the tank.

But two streams of water could be thrown on the building, and these did but little good. Fifty-two persons were in the building, forty patients and twelve attendants. The structure was three stories and an attic, and had two entrances. There was one stairway from the second and third floors, which led into the main halls, thus giving but one egress for those above the first floor.

Patients and attendants fled with terror, confusion resulting, and especially among those on the upper floors. Many heartrending scenes were enacted as the inmates, clad only in their nightclothes and barefooted, rushed down the narrow flight of stairs and flanlly out into the snow.

The temperature was 23 deg. below zero, and further loss of life from freezing was prevented alone by prompt work of the atfendants from the main building. The attendants escaped, as did the others who were saved, with none of their personal effects, many losing all they possessed.

Portions of charred remains can be seen in the débris at the bottom of the basement, which appear to be near the northeast wall. The work of removing the remains and débris will begin in the morning. The four walls of stone still stand, black and grim, and will make the work of removal dangerous, as a total collapse is liable to occur without a moment's warning.

There were quite a number of men in the place, and while some say they do not know who fired first, several declare that Col. Colson opened the fight. Probably a dozen shots were fired before the astounded onlookers could stop the fusillade. Lieuts. McKay and Phelps of the Fourth Wisconsin, on duty with the provost guard, were in the 100m.

Theps of the Fourth Wisconsin, of duty with the provost guard, were in the 100m.

Lieut, Phelps ran up to Lieut, Scott and demanded his pistols. The latter said he willingly relinquished them to the proper authorities, and gave them up. Lieut, McKay, in the mean time, had ordered Col. Colson to disarm, but he refused to do it, and the pistol was taken from him by force. Quick as a flash Col. Colson drew another weapon and fired, some say at Lieut. Scott, and others at Lieut. McKay, but without effect. The provost lieutenant then bent his efforts toward getting Col. Colson's pistol, and in doing so, struck Col. Colson twice with his fiet, bruising his face very badly.

Strangely enough, Colson was the only one injured. An examination disclosed that a builet had entered his hip and ranged around to the rear, where it was located and extracted.

A friend of Col. Colson's swore out a warrant for Lieut. Scott, and he was arrested today. Both officers have many warm personal friends in the regiment, and as further trouble was feared, the entire provost guard was ordered out. Their services were not

The fire was started by an explosion of gas on the third floor, and spread with amazing rapidity. The firemen from the first had no hope of saving the building and directed their efforts to preventing the flames from spreading. Considerable difficulty was ex-perienced by them on account of the low water pressure, many of the hydrants being partly frozen up. The temperature was several degrees be-low zero and a bitter north wind was blowing. Many of the firemen were se-

BEAUTIFUL GROUNDS

In the matter of the regimental officers, the commission found that all volunteer commands officered by men of military experience and training fared much better than those officered by amateurs. The soldlers were more effectively cared for, enjoyed better health and were better fed and clothed. The commission recommends for the future a strict examination into the qualifications of all officers appointed to the army, regular or volunteer. The establishment of schools of instruction for inexperienced officers taken from civil life to meet the emergency created by the war is highly commended. Quite a number of regular officers assigned to the command of volunteer troops adopted this expedient and the results were eminently satisfactory.

TOO MUCH RED TAPE.

TOO MUCH RED TAPE. A most important criticism by the ommission is as follows:

"The routine work in the depart-"The routine work in the departments, in our opinion, is far beyond what is necessary, and each year seems to increase it. The methods employed make it almost impossible to transact business promptly. The heads of all departments, officers of large depots, chiefs of staff, departments, corps and divisions have necessarily been obliged to give the time and attention to details which should have been given to matters of larger moment. No well-regulated concern or corportion could transact business satisfactorily under such regulations as govern the staff departments, and the fact that every officer of each of the staff departments holding responsible positions has been obliged to ignore routine, demonstrates the necessity of a thorough reform."

The report now proceeds to take up the subjects in their regular order, beginning with the army.

On the 1st of April the strength of the army was 2143 officers and 28,010 entisted men, a total of 28,183. War with the kingdom of Spain was declared on April 21, 1898. On May 31, 12,000 volunteers had been mustered into the service. In August, 1898, the regular army numbered 58,365, the volunteer army 207,244, a total of 263,609.

These figures of themselves indicate that an immense work was thrown upon the War Department. After thirty-three years of peace, during a great part of which the army did not exceed 26,000 men, it suddenly became necessary to arm, clothe, feed and equip more than 250,000 men.

How that duty was discharged will appear in detail in subsequent parts of this report. The sudden emergency which called cur people to arms after an interval of half a century of peace with all foreign powers, was made by the War Department with earnestness and energy. The situation found the courtry unprepared with any large stocks of arms, ammunition, clothing, supplies and equipments. That they were provided and the numerous demand on the industries of our people were met so promptly, will remain one of the marvels of history.

LESSONS OF EXPERIENCE.

LESSONS OF EXPERIENCE. Speaking of the lessons taught by xperience, the report says: "The rapidity with which commanding officers of corps, divisions, brigades regiments and officers of the staff departments have profited by the first six months' service is shown in the im-provement of the new camps, their lo-cation, water supply and sanitary ar-

"The weak spots in the first arrange-"The weak spots in the first arrangements in camping troops were soon discovered and it was learned that, with proper system and little expense, they could be camped under favorable sanitary conditions. The present camps are models, the hospitals adapted to the comfort and care of the sick, the grounds clean and the sanitary conditions greatly improved. The troops are now moved with promptness, without friction and with more rapidity than in the beginning of the war. These improvements have come from experience, and the new army is far advanced in facilities for feeding, equipping, camping and transportation."

A recommendation looking to the future then follows:

ing and transportation."
A recommendation looking to the future then follows:
"One of the lessons taught by the war is that the country should hereafter be in a better state of preparation for war. Suggestions have been made that large supplies of all the material not liable to deterioration should be kept on hand, to be continuously issued and renewed, so that in any emergency they might be available. Especially should this be the case with supplies which cannot be rapidly obtained in open market."

concerns the discipline of the army, comes next:

"For many years the divided authority and responsibility in the War Department has produced friction for which, in the interest of the service, a remedy, if possible, should be applied. The Constitution makes the President this commander-in-chief of the army, and he cannot transfer that authority to any other person. The President selects his Secretary of War, who has his confidence, and who is his confidential adviser. The commanding general is assigned to duty as such by the President, and under the military laws of the United States his duties are defined as follows:

"The command exercised by the commanding general of the army, not having been made the subject of statutory regulation, is determined by the order of assignment. It has been habitually composed of the aggregate of the several territorial commands that have been, or may be, created by the President.

"The military establishment is under orders from the commanding general of been, or may be, created by the President.

"The military establishment is under orders from the commanding general of the army in that which pertains to its discipline and military control. The fiscal affairs of the army are conducted by the Secretary of War through the several staff departments (Par. 187, A. R., 1895.)"
"All orders and instructions from the President or Secretary of War relating to military operations or affecting the military control and discipline of the army will be promulgated through the commanding general (Par. 188, A. R., 1895.)

SCHOFIELD'S OPINION. "Lieut.-Gen. Schofield, who has probably had as much experience and given the question as much thought and study as any one in our country, says in sub-as any one in our country, says in substance:

"Recent experience has served to confirm all the results of my lifelong study and large experience that the proper position for the senior officer of the army on duty at Washington is not that of commanding general, a position which is practically impossible, but that of general-in-chief, which means, in fact, chiff of staff to the President. The title of general-in-chief was a permanent one during the entire history of the country up to the time when Gen. Grant became lleutenant-general.

"When I became the commanding general I addressed to the President a siletter in which I pointed out to him what had been the result of my study and experience, and saying that the only way was to abandon entirely, which I did during my seven years of general and to content myself with acting as the chief of staff of the army under the Secretary of War and the President. The result was that perfect harmony prevailed during my time, and I did not exercise a legitimate influence in command of the army, these because I did not claim to exercise anything which the law did not give me.

"The President must have the same power of selection of his general-inchief as he has of his Secretary of War; without this there can be no guaranty that he will give, or that the Secretary of War will place in the general-inchief that confidence which is necessarry to perfect harmony. Neither the President nor the Secretary of War should have in the command of the army an officer who is not working in harmony with him."

The report now takes up the War Department and its various chiefs of subdivisions, beginning with the Secretary of War.

"The records of the War Department which have been laid before us show that the Secretary of War extended to all chiefs of bureaus cordial and full support and promptly responded to every proper demand made upon him by commanding officers.

"No testimony has been presented showing intentional neglect of duty nor any attempt to serve personal interests. The charges made that the Secretary of War was privately interested in the contracts, purchases and other transactions of the War Department, have been thoroughly examined and found baseless.

"In the judgment of the commission there was lacking in the general administration of the War Department during the continuance of the war with Spain that complete grasp of the situation which was essential to the highest efficiency and discipline of the army.

"The commission has refrained from criticising certain of the heads of bureaus for not having acted with foresight in preparing their various departments for active war before war was actually declared, because it has appeared that the national defense funds provided by the act of March 9, 1898, was not made available for use except for the navy and for coast defenses, and the expenditures thereto until after the declaration of war."

ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S DEPART-

camps has the advantage of avoiding the disturbing influences of home locality.

"During the organization and equipment of the army a daily telegraph report was received from each camp. Where important deficiences were reported, the Scoretary of War called attention to the fact, and in most cases it was found that such deficiencies were due to the non-existence of the articles. "There were about 250 regiments, battallons and separate organizations in the army, from only twenty-five of which came complaints, aside from those affecting the medical department. Investigation has shown that the most of these complaints were because of lack of supplies not obtainable at first, or were due to the inexperience of officers in command, not, so far as we can discover, from any intentional hegiect.

"It was found necessary to go out-neglect.

"It was found necessary to go outside and appoint officers from civil life, the selections being frequently made from officers who had had experience in the National Guard, graduated from military colleges and schools, and citizens whose business or professions fitted them for the positions for which they were selected. The testimony shows that they were honest, and manifested a desire to become efficient. No one has been court-martialed, and but few dropped as incompetent.

FRICTION IN THE ARMY.

Perhaps the most significant utterance in the whole document, so far as concerns the discipline of the army, staff officer, and that he wished to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he to make it a matter of record that he had not been a deficiency of $1. star officer, and that he wished to make it a matter of record that in the distribution of many millions of dollars during this war, there was yet to be made the first charge of defalcation against an army officer, regular or volunteer.

"There have been few complaints agains this department. The records show that it has been prompt in its work and has added greatly to the efficiency of the army."

INEFFICIENCY THERE

INEFFICIENCY THERE

INEFFICIENCY THERE.

"Brig.-Gen. Breckinridge, InspectorGeneral U.S.A., is in charge of the inspector-general's department. The commission finds that the department was not as efficient as it ought to have been. There seems to have been a question as to authority by which inspections were to be ordered. On at least one occasion, May I7, the Secretary of War instructed the major-general, commanding the army, to inspect certain camps, viz: those at Chickamauga, Atlanta, New Orleans, Mobile, Tampa,
Miami and Key West. The major-general did not act upon such istructions, stating it to be his place to order in

stating it to be his place to order inspection.

"Further, the commission finds that although several of the officers of this department were assigned to command of troops in the field, still competent officers were left in charge of the department in Washington to perform such duties as were assigned to them. The organization in the field was ample, and the inspectors made reports to the commanding officers to whom they had been assigned. These reports were often not acted upon and were not forwarded to the War Department.

etr-master-General, U.S.A., is in charge of the quartermaster-general's department.

"On March 1, 1898, with the possibility of war with Spain, the quartermaster's department found itself charged with varied, numerous and important duties, its appropriation small, and facing the probability of a large army being soon organized for field service.

"The department, up to March 1, 1898, found itself confronted with sections 3679, 3732 and 3709 of the revised statutes, which prohibit any government department from expending money in excess of appropriations, that purchases shall not exceed the necessities of the current year, and that all proposals shall be advertised.

"It will thus be observed that the declaration of war threw upon the declaration of war threw upon the declaration of war threw upon the declaration of services."

on April 1, 1898, it was amply provided with all necessary clothing and equipage supplies for three months for the army as then organized. It apears that within a few weeks it became necessary to provide for clothing and equipping an army of more than 250,000 men.

"As soon as funds were available, so soon as the law permitted, the quartermaster's department undertook this enormous work. That the quartermaster-general threw the energy of his department into the work, when funds were available, was evident, and that his officers labored faithfully in their efforts to aid him, is plain to those who have carefully studied their work.

"In spite of every effort there were occasions where troops suffered from poor tentage or lack of tentage and absence of straw for bedding, where clothing was scarce, and troops suffered discomfort for lack of shoes, shirts and other articles of apparatus. This was noticed even as late as October in the camps at Anniston, Huntsville and Lexington, while at Huntsville, Ala., and Fortress Monroe, Va., in spite of cool nights, there was a lack of stoves in the hospitals, and at Huntsville the supply of wood was short. With some of the troops sent from San Francisco to Manila, the deficiency in shoes of proper size continued even up to August 31.

"At Santiago the deficiency at the front appears to have been caused rather from lack of transportation from the coast than from the lack of clothing and tentage, a supply of which was on the transports.

"Great complaint was made of lack of transportation facilities at Camp Montauk Point, New York."

"Many complaints were received in reference to unnecessary details and lack of promptness on the part of the quartermaster's department in moving regiments and in the care of sick and convalescents.

"Great complaint was made of the railroad congestion at Tampa and the absolute lack of ability to bring order out of chaos at that place during the early part of the period of its occupancy by the troops. The major-general commanding has stated that supplies for 70,000 men for ninety days were ordered there, and the confusion on the railroad when he reached Tampa was very great, 1000 cars being side-

"Col. Bird of the quartermaster's department testified that this was corrected later on, when the contents of the cars were clearly marked on them and bills of lading promptly forwarded.

"The condition of the railroad congestion during the early portion of the time Tampa was occupied by the troops seemed unparalleled, showing an almost inexcusable lack of, executive ability on the part of those charged with the loading, unloading and handling of trains.

"Col. Bird and Gen. Humphrey testi-fied that there were very poor facili-ties for transferring troops and supplies-arriving at Tampa via the Florida Cen-tral Railroad to the Plant system, lead-ing direct to Port Tampa.

mauga, probably with not such serious results as at Tampa, but complaint was made that materials of different classes were packed in the same car, rendering it necessary to remove large packages of quartermaster's or commissary stores in order to obtain these smaller packages of medicines and medical supplies.

"There was also congestion and confusion in connection with the railroad facilities between the 5th and 15th of August at Camp Wyckoff.

WATER TRANSPORTATION

WATER TRANSPORTATION. "The testimony shows that the first call on the quartermaster's department was for ships to transport 5000 men to Cuba, and that soon after the call was increased, and demand made for steamers to transport 25,000.

"Upon loading the vessels concentrated at Port Tampa, it was found that their capacity had been largely overrated and it was impossible to carry upon them, without great dis-comfort and danger, more than 16,000 men with their equipments, artillery, ammunition, subsistence, medical sup-plies and 2245 animals for a voyage of 1000 miles. Even with this reduction the vessels appear to have been crowded.

"In spite of the efforts of the quartermaster's department many of these vessels were poorly equipped with sleeping accommodations, the sinks in many instances were inconvenient and insufficient, and some of the vessels were badly ventilated and filled with disagreeable odors. It has been stated that had the fleet encountered a severe storm while en route for Cuba, that had the fleet encountered a severe storm while en route for Cuba, the discomfort would have been intense, and there might have been intense, and there might have been intense, and there might have been loss of life. The quarternaster's department ought to have been able to more thoroughly equip these vessels, and surely it would have been more certain of their carrying capacity. A sufficient number of vessels for transporting 25,000 men, with the required lighters for their disembarkation, should have been promptly furnished, even had such action rendered necessary the seizure of every steamer on the Atlantic and Gulf coasts, sailing under the American flag.

"Testimony shows that vessels were not loaded systematically. A battery with its guns and horses would be placed on one vessel, and its ammunition on another. The Second, Seventh and Seventeenth Regular Infantry were each divided up, and each portion in each case sent on three different vessels. The fleet of transports arrived safely at Daiquirl, but the failure to provide a full and sufficient number of lighters for disembarkation of troops, supplies and artillery caused delay, anxiety, annoyance and danger, and had there been serious storms, or had the landing been opposed by a vigilant and well-trained force of the enemy, the result might have been far different.

CONTRACTS MADE.

CONTRACTS MADE.

"Contracts covering millions of dollars were made by the quartermaster's department during the period between April 1 and October 1, and, although indefinite charges have from time to time been made of fraud and collusion, no evidence has been produced before the commission to substantiate these charges, although the parties making them have been invited to appear.

this purpose were very unsuitable.

LAND TRANSPORTATION.

"Owing to the lack of necessary transports, the means of land transportation during the Santiago campaign was painfully deficient.

"Gen. Shafter testified that he could carry no more on his transports from Tampa; that he realized that he would have very few ambulances, but that wagons could be used for transportation, both of the wounded and of supplies, while ambulances could be employed only for one purpose. Gen. Humphrey testifies that no more land transportation was taken, simply because the vessels were fully loaded.

"The testimony shows that the transports arrived off the south coast of Cuba near Santiago, on June 21; that the pack trains were landed on June 25, and that the landing of the latter was continued more rapidly than they could be set up on short notice, and that, in fact, some of those that were landed were never set up at all. Gen. Chaffee testified that on July 1, at the battle of El Caney, ten days after the arrival of the fleet, there were no ambulances or wagons available, and that the roads were so horrible that they could not reach the front.

"It is plainly evident that this army of 17,000 men, disembarked in the face of an enemy in a hostile country, and rapidly thrown forward against a well-armed force, was painfully deficient in land transportation, but in spite of the absence of this almost absolutely necessary portion of the equipment of a well-trained command, it drove the enemy before it, capturing their outposts, pushed them behind their main defenses, drove their fleet from Santiago Bay to absolute destruction as it faced the navy of our country, and, finally, after gallant fighting under a tropical sun, amid most adverse conditions, captured a strongly fortified city and received as prisoners of war over 23,000 Spanish soldiers.'

"Brig.-Gen. Charles P. Eagan, Commissary-General, U.S.A., in charge.

"The commission has carefully investigated the subject of the condition, quality and quantity of food supplied to the army. Almost without exception it has been shown by the testimony taken, that wherever the troops were ordered, whether to the various camps in the United States or to Porto Rico. Cuba or Manila, the rations prescribed by law were on the transports and at the camps with the soldiers.

"So far as we have been able to ascertain, there was but one occasion, that of a day in front of Santiago, when the troops were seriously short of rations; these had been supplied but were thrown aside when the men went into action; the condition of roads and lack of transportation prevented prompt reissue. At times the vegetable ration was not of good quality, the potatoes and onicas being spoiled. Condemned by a board of survey, such vegetables were destroyed, and an equivalent part of the ration issued. Some trouble occurred because such vegetables and other damaged food were disposed of by the company without the warrant of a board of survey. This was done through ignorance, their officers not knowing what was necessary to be done.

24th day of September last. Up to the 21st day of December, its members had taken testimony in seventeen different towns and cities and nine camps. It had also received many hundred letters, communications and newspaper clippings, from persons living in all parts of the country. Examination of numerous officers and enlisted men had been made as to the quality and condition of the meat issued to the troops. The testimony, with some exceptions, showed that the refrigerated beef issued was pure, sound and wholesome. "On the 21st day of December last, Mai.-Gen. Nelson A. Miles, upon the written request of the president of this commission appeared before it. He refused to be sworn, as all other witnesses had been, except one, who affirmed, stating that he would make his statements without being sworn and was responsible for what he said. He proceeded, and for the first time in the history of this investigation, the allegation was made that refrigerated beef issued to the troops had been chemically treated. "In the statement, revised by him-

Miles about the last of August, 1898, that he suspected that the refrigerated beef was chemically treated, it does not appear that the general informed you or the War Department that an officer of his staff had made this discovery, nor does it appear that he at the time ordered any or or the south of the south

tions made at Tampa, Jacksonville, Chickamauga and Porto Rico, he 'tound the fresh beef to be apparently preserved with secret chemicals.' He said that at Fonce the beef he examined was also of the same character, being apparently preserved by injected chemicals.'

"For months, as it appears, Dr. Daly concealed the commission of a crime affecting men under his charge, whom, as an officer and a physician, he was bound to protect."

The report, then, after quoting from the regulations of the Agricultural Department prescribing the manner in which inspections are made (and no packing-house in the country is allowed to do business without governmental inspection,) after detailing the processes pursued by our officials, and showing the practical impossibility of putting impure meat upon the market, goes on to say:

"The commission has not confined itself to merely verbal or written proof."

Immediately upon hearing the testimony of Dr. Daly on the 20th of January, telegrams were sent to all issuing commissaries in Cuba, Porto Rico and at the various home camps occupied by troops, asking that samples of refrigerated beef be at once taken, placed in glass jars, securely sealed and forwarded to the commission. These samples were to be of one pound weight from the outside and one pound weight from the inside of a quarter. In response to this requer, many samples have been received and later sent to the chemists of the Agricultural and Interior departments for careful chemical examination.

"The result of an analysis has been reported to us, as will be seen by the reports appended. In no specimen examined has either boracle or salicylic acid or other deleterious chemicals been found.

"In view of the facts above set forth the commission is of the opinion that no refrigerated beef furnished by contactors and issued to the troops during the war with Spain was subjected to or treated with any chemicals by the contractors or those in their employ. CANNED MEATS.

CANNED MEATS.

"In considering questions concerning canned meats it is not the duty of the commission to inquire into the character, kind and condition of all the canned meats that may be in use in this country. Our specific duty is to give an opinion as to the quality of those furnished the soddiers during the recent war with Spain. There has been neither allegation nor proof before us that boracic or salicyclic or any other acids have been used in the canned meats furnished the troops, but such meats have nevertheless been greatly criticised and they have for that reason been tested by us and have been analyzed under our direction, and we have taken a great deal of testimony as to the mode of their preparation. The canned meat is ordinarily taken from the fore quarters of beeves.

"The Agricultural Department's official reports upon the methods employed by the packing-houses, as required under the inspection regulations, are incorporated.

"The unanimous report shows that a quired under the inspection regulations, are incorporated.

"The unanimous report shows that a number of officers testified that canned beef was unpalatable. It is also elicited that in a tropical country where it is subjected to intense heat, the meat presents a repulsive appearance at first. Furthermore, it transpires that occasionally an inferior article is found. But the records of the army prove that canned beef has been used for many years, and on October 19, 1897, the following official statement was sued:

"WAR DEPARTMENT, Adjutant-Generals Office, Washington, Oct. 19, 1897.

Dr. Sanden's Electric Belt

Was the first introduced in electro-medical science. As a perfected and patented medium for applying a curative current its work is marvelous, and it is today attracting the attention of a world by its sublime effects.

I've devoted many years of close, ambitious study to the cure of diseases of the vital organs, and during the greater part of that time have entirely discarded the use of drug-dosing in my practice; yet am effecting thousands of cures by that Belt, a crowning result of perseverance in experiment and remedial improvements.

My book on this subject is very interesting. Read it—mailed free.

IN THE OIL FIELDS

DEVELOPMENT WORK SLOWLY STEADILY PURSUED.

lomething About Prices and the Relative Values of Oils-Columbia Oil Company in its Second

Well-Other News.

A trip through the Los Angeles oil district shows that there is more new work going on than is generally sup-posed. Particularly is this the case on the west end of the field, where on the west end of the field, where de-velopment is slowly but steadily being pursued. Some of the new wells that are being pumped average from fifteen to twenty barrels a day. In most cases the oil is of a superior quality, free from water and sediment in any great proportion, while some of it is almost nurse carrying not over 2 per cent, in pure, carrying not over 2 per cent. in water. The oil is about 15 gravity.

proportion, while some of it is almost pure, carrying not over 2 per cent. In water. The oil is about 15 gravity.

On the east end work is almost entirely suspended, and several of the old wells which have ceased to yield sufficient oil to make pumping of them profitable have been abandoned.

Among producers operating on the front are: Rex Oil Company, Yukon Oil Company, American Crude Oil Company, Nelson-O'Donnell Oil Company, Daggett & Fletcher and Young & Shaw. The prospect well drilled by this latter firm at the intersection of Sixth street and Western avenue turned out to be a water hole and has been abandoned. Rommel & Co., Garbutt & Pitcher and some others are drilling in "wild cat" territory some distance west of Western avenue, but in direct line with the oil field.

The Oil Storage and Transportation Company reports prices for oil firm at 95 cents to $1 a barrel, f.o.b. tank switch. They also report that an order for thirty carloads for San Francisco at 90 cents, f.o.b., could not be filled, as the order called for oil carrying not more than 5 per cent. water. Oil of that quality is worth 10 cents a barrel more than was offered. It is reported that some small sales of pure oil, 18 gravity, were made during the week at $1 and $1.10 a barrel, city delivery.

In this latter connection it is worth noting that not sufficient attention is given by buyers to the great differences that exist in crude oils. Because some oils are sold below quoted prices it does not necessarily follow that all oils are not worth any more than the price at which such sales have been made. There is such a thing as some oils teeng dear, even now, at 40 cents a barel, simply because the proportion of oil very small. It is not unusual for some oils to contain as much as 30 per cent. and over of water and sediment in them is so great us to make the proportion of oil very small. It is not unusual for some oils to contain as much as 30 per cent. and over of water and sedimentary matter when pumped from the wells. Oil of that quality wo rel as compared with oil at $1 a barrel containing only about 2 per cent. of water.

The Fullerton Tribune reports that the Columbia oil Company began boring its second well on the Olinda ranch last week. Their well No. 1 is producing a high-grade oil.

From the same section comes news that the Union oil Company will commence work in that field about the first of March. Twenty-five men will be put to work at the start. One of the first steps taken by the company will be the construction of a pipe line from their wells to Fullerton.

Advices from Santa Barbara state that the newly-incorporated oil company which recently leased 2009 acres of land at Rincon have been rewarded by a strike of a large flow of rood oil in one of their wells. The property is about six miles from Summerland. According to published reports the indications are that the entire length of the seashore from Miramar to the Rincon, a distance of about twelve miles, is rich in oil.

The Lompoc Record makes note of the fact that some oil experts have been visiting the lands in and about Lompoc, and have secured options on some bordering on the ocean, north and south of the Santa Ynez River. Some of the experts are reported as saying that the prospects for oil in that region are as good as at Summerland, and expressed their intention of starting th boring just as soon as machinery was procured.

ASYLUM APPROPRIATION.

Investigating Committee Will Recommend its Allowance.
The committee appointed by the Legand Sunday morning from the Highland Asylum, which they had inspected under the guidance of John McGonigle of Ventura, president of the board of trustees. . The committee was from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.

"The committee," said Mr. McGonigle, "expressed itself as convinced of the need of the $200,000, every bit of it, asked for. We have now 634 patients under the supervision of Dr. M. B. Campbell, and we are overcrowded. There are a few rooms left for makes, but the female department is too small. The superintendent has told me that he will have to send twenty-five seomen away at once, to Stockton, if possible. Our idea is to build a central wing which was planned when the institution was first built. We need also a female cottage, a storm drain which would cost from $7000 to $5000, and a residence for the superintendent and family."

The board thinks that the bill for the appropriation, or a part of it, will pass the Senate and Assembly, and that Gov. Gage will veto it. Before the Governor's inauguration the matter was broached to him, and he stated emphatically that the State could not afford the amount. Since his veto of Vernerich's Bill, for an appropriation of $10,000 for importing Australian scale parasites, the board has become even less hopeful.

The committee is composed of Chairman Wade of Napa, C. W. Merritt of Santa Barbara, Dr. H. L. Pace of Tulare, Cy H. Boynton of Frennando, Dr. G. D. Marvin of Blue Lake, W. H. La Baree of Weaverville, Fred Lunguist of San Francisco, John J. Crowley of San Francisco, Dr. C. G. Cargill of San Francisco and O. Soribner of Fresno. They left last evening on the Owl train for Sacramento and will report to the Legislature on Wednesday.

Although there has been a dearth of sporting events in Los Angeles during the last week, outside of the polo match and pony races at Agricultural Park, the future is bright for some good games and matches. Golf is right now on the boom, and hunting, particularly that of ducks, has taken on an impetus which is gratifying to the sportsman. There is a good outlook for some first-class pugilistic events, and tennis is not to be slighted.

Just why the pony races and polo match were so poorly attended cannot be accounted for unless it was the season. Summer always brings with it a love for sports, and the poor showing at these two events cannot be taken as an indication of a decreasing interest in outdoor games.

Shooting is also causing no little amount of interest at the present time, and target work as well as that of live game is being indulged in to no small extent. It is yet a little early for the cycling season, but dealers in wheels report big sales and lots of interest.

The team match will be for sport alone, but a trophy may be given for the highest individual score. Shou'd the match be concluded in time, bullseye pool shooting will follow.

C. A. Leighton will select the Sharpshooters' team, and the range will be open next Saturday for competition shooting for places on the team.

The Turners, Azusa, Los Angeles Sharpshooters and police teams shot very evenly in the last tournament, and the rivalry between them probably will make it a closely-contested match this time.

Moted Horses on the Market.

[Chicago Journal:] Jacob Ruppert, Sr., has decided to retire from the breeding of trotting and pacing stock. He has announced that some time in March he will sell at public auction his entire breeding establishment, the Hudson River Stock Farm near Pough, keepsie. About 150 horses, among them animals that cost Mr. Ruppert prices between $6000 and $10,000, will be offered at the dispersal. Mr. Ruppert's breeding establishment is one of the best equipped in the country, and is stocked with choicely-bred stallions and mares, most of them purchased at big prices at the time in the early nineties when the boom in trotting stock was at its highest. Mr. Ruppert bought what he wanted regardless of price, and his investments amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars, at first cost, aside from the expense of keeping up his model establishment in the liberal style that he adopted. A part of his farm equipment was a perfectly appointed trotting track. Among the horses owned by Mr. Ruppert are Favorite Wilkes, 2:24½, the sire of more than a score of horses with records better than 2:30; Col. Ruppert, 2:23½; Ruprecht, 2:11¾, and Hi Bi Bi, 2:15¼. At the last horse show in Madison Square Garden he was a prominent exhibitor, and with the fine colt Eighteen Carat won a championship ribbon. The reason given by Mr. Ruppert for these three plans of settlement. Promona's entire student body, without a dissenting voice, and with no stormy debate, resolved to have nothing to do with 'U.S.C. in athletic matters until the question at issue is left to some fair means of ajudication. It appeared plain that the student body of U.S.C. would not, with any measure of harwould not, with any measure of har-mony, support its delegates in their ac-tion. It has not done so. It is clear that there are men in that body who see their delegates took an unwis-course, and when the spirit and posi-tion of Pomona are better understood at U.S.C. these men will be in the majority. Carat won a championship ribbon. The reason given by Mr. Ruppert for his retirement is that his other business interests do not give him the time he should have to look after his breeding enterprise.

At the Churches Yesterday.

REV. J. W. BALL preached upon this subject yesterday at the En-glish Lutheran Church, basing his glish Lutheran Church, basing his remarks upon Matthew xix, 17, "There is none good but one, that is God." Mr. Ball said: "Man is a minor god, created in the likeness of Him who formed the heavens and the earth. Yet when brought into the presence of God he is afraid. There is hardly an appearance of God or His angel recorded in scripture but it is also added that he to whom the appearance came was 'sore afraid.' Or look, if you will, at the prevalence of superstition among most men of Christian as well as heathen lands. To what does it point but to the recognition of higher powers which man fears. The ideal relation between man and God is not realized because of sin.

"When we contemplate sin we look."

upon a universal fact. It is not only the Bible which tells us that all men are sinners. The consciences and experience of men in all ages bear witness to the same. The literature of all nations recognizes the fact of human misery and sin, and even of guilt. The universal testimony is that which Jesus confirmed when He said to the young man. There is none good but one, that is God."
"Some have sought to make of sin man. There is none good but one, that is God."

"Some have sought to make of sin merely a defective stage of development, contending that this defect will be outgrown as men advance into higher stages of life. But the facts of education do not bear out such a theory. Sin is a defect, but it is more. It is more than weakness; it is vastly more than an imperfect stage of development; it is not merely negative; it is something positive. Conscience itself testifies that wrong is not merely the absence of right, but that it is the exact contradiction of it. 'Sin is transgression of the law,' or rather the spirit of lawlessness.

"Sin, then, is an evil power, originating outside of man, vast and worldembracing, having a supreme head in the personal Satan. Sin has entered into the world, and death by sin, so that sin and death have become universal facts, in which even the material world has been affected, 'being made subject to vanity.' Hill streets, on the subject of "A Bountiful Providence." He said in part: "One of the earliest and most persistent religious doctrines that was taught me as a youth, and as a student in the theological seminary, was that of a special and bountiful Providence, that would always watch over, protect and provide for me, if I should be faithfully true to a religious life. In support of such teaching a favorite text was quoted from Psalm xxxviii, 25, and following: 'I have been young and now am old, yet have I not seen the righteous for-saken. nor his seed begging their bread.' This statement may have been true according to the experience of the writer, but I venture to remark that it does not express the experience of the men and women of this audience. The sermons on this subject of 'Providence' contained a setting forth of the promise of all good things to 'the saints.' a 'barter and trade' idea for the encouragement of piety.

"The so-called 'good and evil' of men's lives was said to be dependent on the degree of faithfulness or unfaithfulness with which they perform their religious duties. But we have come to different views. It is now seen, as never before, that to suppose a special divine interference in our personal behalf is irrational, and to desire it is unethical; it is not manly or womanly, according to the highest standard of manhod and womanhood. And more, it is Irreligious, because the manifestation of God is seen to be opposed thereto. There is no trustworthy evidence that the divine Being ever interfered in behalf of one man or woman to the neglect or disparagement of neglect or disparagement is involved in the doctrine of a 'special Providence.'

"Every little while we notice in the current press an article descriptive of some charitable or religious bequest made in grateful acknowledgment of personal benefit through a 'special providence.' I am glad for these foundations that often are of such great benefit to thousands of our fellow-men; but I cannot accept the belief in a special providence tha

Salvation.

REV. A. C. SMITHER preached yes-terday morning at the First Chris-tian Church upon "Salvation," from the text, "Work out your own salvathe text, work out your own savation." Salvation, said the speaker, is one of the key-words, the great words, of the Christian religion. An adequate comprehension of the biblical conception of this word is most important, and yet few words are more frequently misunderstood. Some accentuate too often the divine side to the entire neglect of the human; others emphasize the human side to the entire neglect of the divine. The golden mean is between these two extremes. In this text salvation is presented as a real achievement, an actual deliverance of man from the love, practice and power of sin, a genuine salvation inwrought in man's conduct and real character. This salvation is not divinely bestowed. It is wrought out in the fires of human struggle, forged upon the anvii of genuine effort upon the part of one's own tion." Salvation, said the speaker, is one struggle, roged upon the anvil or gen-uine effort upon the part of one's own self. God honors the nature and rank of man, and lays upon him a vital part of this moral transformation that Christianity is designed to produce. This salvation from the power and practice and love of sin is not something to be wrought, out in the realm of the to be wrought out in the realm of the future life, but is something that must to arise to an adequate understanding of the New Testament meaning of salvation and the appropriation and ap-plication of such a salvation. It would and wards of the eternal power and mind? Savior." 'It was He who on the cross exclaimed. 'It is finished.' who also said, after His resurrection, 'All power is given unto me in heaven and ginearth.' He who would save the world must be omnipotent. At the birth of Christ the power of the highest overshadowed His virgin mother. He was born with the power to save His people from their sins, and He upholdeth all things by the world of Him the power. Was in Christ read of Him to power. Was in Christ read of Him to power. Was in Christ is not only sufficient in power, but also in love. He so loved us that He suffered for our sins. It was love that led Christ to leave His throne and come to this world of sin and sorrow; that enabled Him to bear the scorn of the world, the agony of the garden, the sufferings of Calvary. But Christ is not only an all-sufficient Savior because He possesses all power and love, but because He also possesses all grace, and is willing to save. He came to seek and save that which was lost."

Philosophy of Organization.

H a GIBSON addressed the meeting of the Luriversal Brotherhood "Sunday morning at Aryan Hall, No. 525 West Fifth etreet, taking for his subject "The Philosophy of Organization." He said: "At the beginning of a manvantara, or as the Bible says." In the beginning, all was chaos, then out of this came order and the result is cosmos. Utterface of the world will have don't be could be no universe. The basis of all order is the central source of life, the universal Divine will. Man himself is the greatest example of organization with which we are familiar in all aspects, physical, mental, moral and spiritual; the spiritual, the real center of man, being the synthesizer of the whole, and all working together for the good of the organism. Diseases is only the effort of nature to restore harmony. It takes a strong, robust nature to withstand a hard on slaught of disease. But if there is sufficient to which and a support manhood that reflects the divine character and image of containing."

THAT PROPOSED CONFERENCE.

A movement looking to an end of the deadlock at Sacramento is outlined in the dispatches from that seat of war, through an open caucus, or what may more properly be termed a legis'ative conference. It is anticipated that through a free debate-a sort of legis!ative heart-to-heart gabfest, so to speak-the present bindingness of the situation may be put an end to and the election of a successor to Senator White accomplished. While such an election is of paramount importance, from one point of view, we are free to say that should it result in the selection of the notorious political boss of devious methods and a still more devious record, Daniel M. Eurns, it were a thousand times better that California never have another representative in the upper California must have a Senator who will not disgrace the State, or none at all-that should be the position taken by our representatives at Sacramento, and there they should stand fast, no matter how loud the clamor for the election of a Senator, regardless of his pedigree, character, attainments or standing among his fellow-citizens. There has been a remarkable inflation of shares in copper mines, and and English financial papers have crash comes. Meantime, the price of copper has also been forced skyward. A year ago it was quoted at about 11 cents a pound. By the close of 1898 It is evident, to the most casual observer, that such an advance as this is not legitimate.

Some people are going to burn their fingers badly in copper stocks before the present year is much older.

If Dan Burns presumes that by hanging on he can wear out the patience of the people of the State and cause the newspapers to overlook his nefarious cause in the consideration of greater things he will find himself as vastly mistaken as he has been in his muchvaunted ability to elect himself United States Senator. There is no one in California so impatient or so busy as to permit the election of Dan Burns, an act which would cast a cloud of dishonor over this commonwealth and cause good citizens to blush to call themselves Caffornians. The eagle eye of the populace and the press of the State continues to be fixed upon this attempt of an unfit man to burgle his way into the national Senate and his dark-lantern methods will not work. PARKS AND BOULEVARDS.

For several years there has been, from time to time, talk about a systematic improvement of the parks of Los Angeles, and the construction of a chain of wide boulevards, connecting the various parks. These propositions have, so far, begun and ended in talk, but it is hoped that, now we have a new City Council, something more definite may be achieved, especially since the Mayor has declared himself as being in favor of judicious liberality in this direction.

The value of a fine system of parks and boulevards, apart from the pleasure they afford the city in which they are located, can scarcely be over estimated. Several eastern cities have attained a national reputation by this means, and it is a well-founded opinion that the enhanced value of real estate in the neighborhood of these improvements has been far more than sufficient to pay for their cost, leaving the aesthetic side of the question for net profit. Considering the exceptional vantages enjoyed by Los Angeles, in the shape of a climate which permits the cultivation of plants and trees under special protection from the elements, it is somewhat remarkable that nights. so little has yet been accomplished The question of expense should not be allowed to prove a stumbling block in First, because, this direction. above stated, such improvements are more than returned to the city through the enhanced value of real estate, and, secondly, because as the main benefits from these parks and boulevards accrue to the coming generation, it is only fair that we should permit those who come after us to contribute the major share of the expense, which may be done in the shape of long-time bonds.

Without, however, waiting until a bond issue can be voted, and the work of constructing these improvements commenced on an extensive scale, there is one simple way in which a good beginning may be made in this direction. Rather more than a year ago a resolution was introduced and carried in the City Council that the chain gang, after a certain time, should be removed to Elysian Park and kept there. This should be done. It is not a pleasant sight to see these prisoners carted about the city every morning and evening. The Park Commissioners, acting en the suggestion of the Mayor, have recommended this course to the Council.

Hall silkate fiber free from all sulphur, Hall got a downy wool, the possibilities of which, it seems, are almost unlimited Hall is a man who does not talk much and, being a chemist, he does not take anything for granted. He admits tha as the finished silicate wool stands it is not suitable to be woven into garments, and that possibly the fiber is not elastic enough, but the firm in Boston is attending to that matter, and the announcement that a company is elected formed for the arcetion of already formed for the erection of a very large plant at Alexandria to manufacture this wool, makes it seem reasonable that the process is further advanced than its discoverer admits.

Hall's rock wool is just as white and soft as the wool the sheep produces. It has a very good fiber, and it can be produced much cheaper than sheep can be raised and clipped. There is no oil to be worked out, and in some respects the rock produces the best article. The new wool is not affected by water or fire, closely resembling asbestos in this respect. It can be washed and thrown on an open grate fire to dry without a mark of damage.

The Boston firm sees great possibilities for this discovery in the lines of manufacture. There are hundreds of uses aside from clothing for which cloth made from wool of this kind would be in demand. Fire curtains in theaters, for instance, are at present made of steel and of asbestos, but both are cumbersome, crude and expensive. A pretty smooth cloth on which scenes could be painted, the same as the liners and muslins that are now used, and which at the same time would be a fire protection, can be made from the artificial wool. Used as a silicate fiber, it is adapted for any use in which in sulation is needed. It can be wrapped around pipes to hold heat or cold, can be used as a noise-deadener for floors instead of clay, and can be utilized for incasing refrigerator cars, instead of the ooke felt now used.

instead of clay, and can be utilized for incasing refrigerator cars, instead of the coke felt now used.

The rock from which it is manufactured, is, to all appearances, common limestone, and is obtained from the quarries in and around Alexandria. It is the same stone used for buildings in Chicago. It is considered one of the best building, curbing and foundation stones. Indiana produces, and is of a stones Indiana produces, and is of a whitish-gray color. There is a series of very large quarries of this stone around Alexandria, and the supply is unlimited throughout this county.

MIDWINTER NUMBER.

"Very Valuable." [New Holland (Pa.,) Clarion:] are in receipt of a copy of the Midwin-ter Number of the Los Angeles, Cal., Times for January 1. It is an mense paper of 118 pages, with an elaborately-designed cover in colors. It is profusely illustrated with views of the city and its surroundings, public buildings, private homes, business places, etc., and its description of that admirable section is very interesting. The number is very valuable, and reflects much credit upon the editors and publishers of The Times.

"Interesting News." The Los Angeles Times, a truly Californian paper, has a very interesting Midwinter Number. There are many halftones of Los Angeles views, the wonders of the vegetable kingdom in that county, and the results of the sportsman's labor, besides pictures of some of the eminent citizens of the town. The coming horse show is written up with illustrations of the horses that are to participate, and other things of interest. There is, of course, a great deal said about the future of the southern part of California, and the whole makes interesting reading for any one interested in our State, and in its possibilities.

"Handsome and Elaborate."

[Flagstaff (Ariz.,) Sun:] The Midwinter Number of the Los Angeles Times is a handsome and elaborate edition. It contains 118 pages, with an illustrated cover. The edition is largely confined to California subjects, but Yavanai county, Ariz., with its wealth of gold, copper, silver and onyx and other resources is given a page and a half. The Times is the most enterprising of all the Pacific Coast dailies, and its circulation in Arizona is larger than all its contemporaries.

IAshtabula (O.) Beacon: The Beacon has received a copy of the handsome Midwinter issue of the Los Angelés Times, devoted to an exhaustive resumé of the manifold attractions of California's sunny clime. It consists of 108 pages, exclusive of the gorgeously lithographed cover.

Timing a Train.

Not one person in a hundred who travels has any idea of the speed of a train, and even a large percentage of the regular trainmen cannot tell with any decree of accuracy. Engineers use their driving wheel as a gauge. They know its circumference, and by counting its revolutions within a certain time, can tell very accurately the speed at which they are running.

A favorite method of timing among passengers is to count the telegraph poles. As a rule these poles are planted thirty to the mile, but in prairie countries where only a single wire is used, the number diminishes to twenty-five, so that rule will not alwavs work. The most accurate method and the most in use by experienced railroad men, is to count the number of rail joints the train passes over in twenty seconds. The rails on nearly all roads are thirty feet in length, and the number passed over in twenty seconds is the speed per hour a train is running.

For instance, if a passenger can seconds is the speed per hour a train is running.

For instance, if a passenger can county thirty clicks on a rail joint in twenty seconds, the train is running at a speed of thirty miles an hour. Actually, this method falls a little short, as in the example given above the speed would be nearer thirty-one than thirty miles, but it is near enough. all practical purposes

Only one man out of all of the finest, who make up the city police force, refused to sorrow over the demise of the feathered pet. That man was Detective Auble, who still bears the marks of Dewey's talons on his thigh. He did mourn, nevertheless, not for the eagle, however, but for the trousers that the bird ruined on the occasion of its capture in the mountains of Kern county last summer. It has ever since been a source of worry and grief to the valiant detective that the eagle did not rejoice that it had been so fortunate as to be captured by a party of policemen, but instead asserted its displeasure by tearing great rents in his leg coverings, which rents did not stop at the coverings.

which rents did not stop at the coverings, which rents did not stop at the coverings.

Dewey was ill for some time prior to his death, and Officer Tom Rico, who volunteered to act as a bird doctor, pronounced the disease to be pneumonia. He says he heard the bird cough several days ago. Rico was alone in the basement of the Police Station at the time, and he ought to know, although some of his brother officers spurn such an idea as ridiculous. But whether Dewey coughed or did not cough, he was sick. He refused to take his food, but sat sorrowfully on his perch from day to day, slowly pining away until death overcame him shortly after 7 o'clock.

Although Patrol Driver McKenzie does not make any pretentions of being a veterinary surgeon, nor yet a bird doctor, he differs with Rico, and declares that the policemen's pet died for lack of live meat to tear with his claws. Dewey was a feroclous bird when captured, and, although used to preying upon live food, never but one since his attempt to investigate a coyote, trap, which attempt caused his company. The boy was known as many drug stores in Los Angeles, and the room was in disorder. preying upon live food, never but once since his aittempt to investigate a coyote-trap, which attempt caused his detention in a police station, has the noble bird been given a chance to tear live meat. That one instance was not free from hinderance, however, because Dewey was forced to sever two thicknesses of cloth before reaching his prey. McKenzie may, therefore, be right, but regardless of the cause of death, Dewey will be given a respectable interment, and will be mourned by the entire department.

Among the heroes who fell in the ecent battle of Manila was Corp. Henry M. Thompson, who spent nearly all the years of his life on a ranch several miles south of this city, and who had many friends and acquaintances in Los Angeles. He was a member of Co. shortly after the war broke out. Corp. Thompson was a cousin of Charles Turney, No. 214 Boyd street, this city, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Thompson, who now reside at Edna, San Luis Obispo county.

The young soldier, fired by patriotic zeal to serve his country, enlisted against the wishes of his parents, and the parting, when the transport which bore him and others to the distant Philippines, sailed, was an affecting one. The news that he was cut down by an insurgent bullet was such a shock to Mrs. Thompson that she was prostrated, and it is feared that she cannot recover.

Silver Republicans Indorse the Old Wild Cat Scheme.

Nathan Cole managed Saturday night o corral in Turner Hall seventy-one men and women for the reorganization of his Silver Republican Club, and he proceeded to reconstruct the organization tion in admitted violation of its own constitution and bylaws.

The assembly was a composite picture of the dissatisfied. There were present a small sprinkling of former Republicans, a number of ex-Democrats, while even the Prohibitiodists were represented by Will D. Jozki.

lent as the average member, that honor being conferred on Judge J. N. Phillips.

The election was scarcely over when a young man who had just entered arose and called attention to the fact that the constitution and bylaws were being violated. He was sat down on very promptly, however, by the declaration that an organization which could create a constitution could violate it if it saw best.

An amendment was made to the constitution and bylaws, though why this was deemed necessary in view of the facility with which it could be set aside was not apparent. It previded that when 100 members of the club should agree to such act, the officers could be ousted.

should agree to such act, the officers could be ousted.

At this point another beardless youngster got in his work by inquiring whether it would be possible to ever get 100 members together. No one had the temerity to claim that this would be possible, and yet the provision went through. This was in striking contrast with the claim of ex-President Cole that the organization has 7000 members.

After the transaction of the business the privilege of crying in public was dished out to a number of people in allotments of ten minutes each.

FOUND DEAD IN BED.

Morphine Causes Demise of a Traveling Man.

Eugene Berendsen, a traveling man, representing the Monmouth Pottery Company of Monmouth, Ill., was found dead in bed in a lodging-house at No. 328½ North Main street early yesterday evening. Morphine poisoning is thought to have caused his death, although whether it is a case of suicide or an accidental demise cannot be known until a coroner's jury has decided the fact. Three empty morphine tablet boxes and three tablets were found by the side of the bed. The remains were taken to Garrett's undertaking rooms at No. 330 North Main street, where an inquest will be held this morning.

Berendsen's identity was learned from a letter of introduction from Bradstreet's New York office. The epistle was addressed to the subscribers of Bradstreet on behalf of the Monmouth firm, which is one of the subscribers.

The traveling man rented a room at ers of Bradstreet on behalf of the Monmouth firm, which is one of the subscribers.

The traveling man rented a room at the lodging-house Thursday afternoon, teiling the landlady that he would stay a week. He retired early Saturday evening, but yesterday being Sunday, nothing was thought of the fact that he lay abed till late. When, however, he had not left his room at 6 o'clock in the evening, the landlady attempted to gain an entrance to the apartment with a latch key. The room key inserted in the lock on the inside of the room, prevented her entrance, and, after repeated knocking and calling, to which she received no response, she called one of Garrett's employés, who forced the door and found Berendsen dead. His body was cold, and the room was in disorder. The three morphine boxes had been purchased from as many drug stores in Los Angeles, and three wrappers, which appeared to have been around them, were found close by the side of the bed. Berendsen had been well dressed, and in one of his pockets was found a return rail-road ticket to San Dimas, which had been issued February 9. He was about 35 years old.

Two claim checks for answers to advertisements in yeasterday morning's papers were found in the pockets of the dead man. The advertisements in question were for the sale of an orange grove.

being knocked down by a wagon, no blame being attached to the railway company. The boy was knocked down by a team driven by an unidentified man, and thrown in front of the car, which crushed out his life, Saturday evening. At the inquest, held at the Dexter Sampson Company's undertaking rooms on South Spring street yesterday afternoon, the driver of the team failed to appear, but testimony was given by the conductor and motorman of the car which killed the boy.

Business in Mexico

H. B. Layton of the Mexican Wood and Development Company is at the Westminster for the winter. The company furnishes the fuel for the city of Guaymas, Mex., and has its own steamers and docks, and owns a big tract of land about sixty miles north of Guaymas. The wood is mesquite and sells at retail for about 3 cents per stick. Mr. Layton has spent years in Moxico. sells at retail for about 3 cents per stick. Mr. Layton has spent years in Mexico and says that business men there recognize the value of the new steamship line projected. He thinks that it is a little early yet for capital to do much in Mexico, save in mining. The advent of steamers and the improvement of desert irrigable lands will do much toward improving the business possibilities of the country, he says.

Questions of Law.

Mrs. F. G. H. writes: My father just narried again after my mother had been dead only seven months, much against the wishes of his children. He deeded her a piece of property, an empty lot, valued at $800. What will the law allow her in case my father dies without leaving a will? Can she come in for half of what property there is left? Can his children compel him to make a will? It is all community prop-

W. H. C. writes: A man dies leaving his widow and three children the home property. Later one of the heirs sells his share of the estate to the other two, releasing to them his interest, the release becoming a matter of record. Of the other two children, one dies, leaving no issue, the other marries and, dying, leaves-two children. The widow sells the estate, it being necessary that a guardian be appointed for the grand-children to enable the widow to give a clear title to the property. With the proceeds of this sale the widow buys other property with her own and the money of the children, which property is entirely in her name. If the widow dies can the heir who disposed of the share in the original estate make valid claim to all or any portion of the green the estate? Can the property be left him by will?

Even with a guardian for the two children (minors) the widow could not sell their interest without a direct authority of the court. If she did so, she holds their interest in trust for them; and there seems also to be a resulting trust in favor of the surviving brother, unless he has released his interest.

The property can be left him by will as to the interests of the two

The United States courts are all Federal courts.

First, as to the system of national courts, there are commissioners, who are a kind of committing magistrate. There are District courts large'y of criminal jurisdiction: Circuit courts of Appeals; the United States Supreme Court. Appeals do not ordinarily lie from the Supreme Courts of the States; only when a national question is involved in the controversy. But appears can be taken from the Supreme courts of the Territories in some cases to the Circuit courts of Appeal; in other cases to the United States Supreme Court. The Supreme courts of the States have final jurisdiction in all exclusive State matters.

Sometimes, the United States have jurisdiction because of the residences

M. E. M.: There appears in some way to have ocurred a misprint in the answer to your inquiry as to the statute of limitation. The period on a judgment is five years; on a promissory note executed within the State, four years; executed without the State, two years. There can be little doubt that this distinction between promissory years. There can be little doubt that this distinction between promissory notes executed within and without the State is unconstitutional and void.

F. H. T.—All the statutes of California, as well as the statutes elsewhere, are subject to the general principle of statutory law that statutes have no extra-territorial force. Hence California cannot treat as void a marriage entered into in another State within twelve months after divorce in California. This is well settled by all the decisions which have been rendered on the New York statute of divorce.

T. W. P.—It has been held in an old case (20 Cal., 100,) that an indorsement of payment on a promissory note does not extend the period of limitations. I believe if the question were again to recur, however, that case would be overruled, as it is contrary to the general doctrine prevalent in other States and to the current of California decisions previously rendered.

T. L. O.—There is always a moral obligation to pay a debt. And it is not morally hopest to rely upon the statute of limitation in order to escape the payment of a just debt that has never been discharged. The statute in itself, however, is eminently right. It means merely that it will not assist one whose claim has become stale by his negligence to inforce it, hence a new promise in writing will remove the bar. And so the Supreme Court has declared that "the moral obligations to pay indebtedness is not extinguished by the statute of limitations, and even though the debt is barred the debtor cannot recover property pledged to secure its payment without first paying the debt, and where the objection of the statute is not properly raised on the record, the court may order the pledged property to be sold to satisfy the indebtedness (99 Cal., 57). And a new promise to pay may, in the absence of a prohibitory statute, be expressed or implied; either an absolute promise to pay or an acknowledgment of the debt as existing, in writing (56 Cal., 374; 76 Cal., 101.)

T. M. D. R.—In proceedings to divest individuals of their property for public use, statutes allowing it must be strictly construed in fayor of the individual right; but in the exercise of the powers conferred such statutes should be liberally construed so as to effect the purpose for which the property is so taken, so as to practically carry that purpose out into full operation.

as owner or the ground as a private way (93 Cal., 500; 100 Cal., 208.)

R. D.—A municipal corporation is not liable for damages caused by the prevention of the flow of surface water from the lot of a private owner, by reason of the raising of a street to the grade established by law, where such surface water does not run in a natural channel across the lot. The nuisance is on the lot and not in the street, and the only remedy to prevent the accumulation of the water is by the owner's raising the lot to a level with the street, which the city is not bound to do: and not by an action against the city to abate the nuisance. But a city is not authorized to place any obstruction across the channel of a natural water course without taking the necessary precautions for the escape of water flowing therein; and if the water is backed upon private property by means of an embankment erected in the grading of a street, and it does not provide for the escape of the water by means of a permanent sewer, or some other channel of escape in lieu thereof, it is liable to an action by the owner of the property flooded to abate the obstruction as a nuisance and to recover the damages thereby sustained.

The property can be left him by will so far as adult interests are concerned, but not as to the interests of the two minor children.

J. G. A. writes: (1) What is the difference between (a) United States courts, (b) the United States District Courts, (c) the Federal courts, (d) the United States Circuit, Court, or are they different names for the same thing? (2) Is their jurisdiction superior to that of the Supreme courts of the various States, and do appeals lie in all case to them from the Supreme courts of any State? (3) Also do appeals lie to them from the ordinairy Common Pleas, a Circuit Court? (4) Are all the courts in a Territory—like Arlzona—United States Courts? If so is there any apeal from their decision, and to what court?

The courts of a Territoria Legislature, but not so in other Territories, although in others some of the judicial officers are paid by the Territories, although in others some of the judicial officers are paid by the Territories, although in others some of the judicial officers are paid by the Territories, although in others were detailed by the probate courts are all Federal courts.

The United States courts are all Federal courts.

First, as to the system of national power over it, or it he has not yet ac-quired such an interest in, or power over it as to permit him to dispose of it adversely to others, it cannot be at-tached for his debt. A mortgage has no attachable interest in mortgaged premises. In some States, however, such interest is by statute expressly subjected to attachment.

D. T. O.—In general the compromise of litigation by a client cannot affect the rights of the attorney under a contract for the conveyance of land as compensation, though he cannot obtain any better title than the client had, and of that the other party and those claiming under him with notice cannot complain. An attorney cannot present a compromise by his client, but neither the client nor the opposite party having knowledge of his rights can so compromise the action as to defeat the rights of the attorney in the subject of the action.

It Roused His Ambition.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer:] The fat boarder groaned softly as he watched the landlady hand around the cold chicken. He saw his finish. It would nither be a section of the back or a leg joint. He wasn't much of a favorite with the landlady.

"I am not," he sorrowfully remarked, "a man of ambitious longings. I care nothing for the cares of state, or the applause of thousands. But it never struck me so forci'ly as the president."

"And why this evening?" inquired the unsuspecting landlady.

"Because the President," said the fat boarder with an unctuous fervor, "because the President whenever he dinesand it's an old and beautiful customis invariably waited upon first."

And he took his section of back with a heavy sigh.

GREAT INTEREST TAKEN.

ix-day Bicycle Race Will Draw Orowds at San Francisco.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 12-Judgin by the interest taken in the preliminary events, the six-day bicycle race, which will begin at the Mechanic's Pavillon tomorrow night, is assured of a large attendance. There was scarcely a va-cant seat in the big building last night, and the trials of speed scheduled for tonight attracted an almost equal num-ber of spectators.

Much curiosity is manifested regarding the appearance and condition of the contestants in the long-distance events contestants in the long-distance events to be run off during the week. Tod Sloan has been supplanted as a popular hero by Michael, Elkes and Bald. Even Waller, who attracted little attention as a rider while residing in Oakland, across the bay, a few years ago, is now greeted with hearty applause whenever he shows himself on the track.

Large Crowd Present.

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 12.—A big crowd attended the coursing at Agricultural Park today. The weather was soft and spring-like and the dogs and hares in fine condition. Many of the courses were long and exciting. The winners were:

Sapling Stake—Pride of Clare first, Fashion Plate second, Rebe third and Blackbird fourth.

Open stake—Mercury first, Promise Me second, Cricket third and Duke of Wellington fourth.

Coursing at San Jose.

SAN JOSE, Feb. 12.—In the coursing matches today there were thirty-two entries for the All-age stake. In the final Rush O'Hill beat Survivor. In the Sapling stake there were eight entries, and only the first run down, the result being Ruby R beat Marigold, Straight Tip beat Jim Corry, Miss Georgia beat Quien Sabe, Blue Nell-beat Filipino.

Golden Gate Club Defeated.

SAN JOSE, Feb. 12.—The first nine of the Santa Clara College defeated the Golden Gate baseball club of San Francisco today by a score of 12 to 8.

PHOENIX (Ariz.,) Feb. 10.-[Regular orrespondence.] The report of the Adutant-General of Arizona for the year Adjt.-Gen. H. F. Robinson commend the Arizona militia highly. He says: "I the guard are imbued with praise worthy enthusiasm in the work of pro-moting the efficiency of the guard, and have, by commendable pride, military bearing and excellent discipline, justified the confidence of the people."

The war with Spain demonstrated the patriotism and military inclination of Arizonans. . The Territory's full quota only three companies of infan try. She furnished seven officers and 200 men for the Rough Riders, and twelve officers and 334 men for the First Territorial Regiment. To join these organizations there were discharged from the guard ten officers and 117 enlisted men. "In addition to these," continues is the plaintiff in the two suits against druggists which have been brought in the City Recorder's Court, but the action of the city in starting the prosecution of the cases was taken upon complaint of the sation men, and so the conductors of the local drink dispensaries are generally regarded as the aggressors. They are the ones who are expected to furnish the evidence to show that laquor was soid by the druggists.

Since the prosecution was started the drugstore men have adopted strict measures in that direction, and have been refusing to sell alcohol, and numerous articles of which it forms an important part. This action on their part has served as an object lesson to patrons wishing to get fuel for their alcohol lamps, and the like, and the saloon men are getting the blame for the inconvenience which the refusals of the druggists cause to such patrons.

It is openly charged that the real purpose of the campaign against drug store whisky is to becloud the issue and make people forget the proposition in favor of fewer saloons, the accomplishment of which it is thought might be secured by raising the licenses on saloons from $300 to $1000 per year.

The present situation is looked upon as an unfortunate tangle, both for the municional administration and for the saloon men. The City Attorney has announced his intention to prosecute the suits against the druggists to a final conclusion unless otherwise instructed by the City Trustees. Unless the City Trustees back down the cases will be prosecuted to such an extent as to gain the ill-will of the defendants and their friends against the administration.

As a result of the complaints which have been made by the saloon-keepers they are pretty sure to receive more attention in the matter of infractions of the ordinances. The town is so sparsely policed that the pass officers cannot be expected to see everything that is going on in all of the numerous drinking places all at once, and as a rule people who are not officers have not made it their business to report viol the report, "there were a large number of volunteers who were ex-members of the National Guard of Arizona. Among these was the brave Capt. O'Neil, the first volunteer to be mustered into the service of the United States for the war, who laid down his life before Santiago, and who had served in the Arizona Guard in different capacities from private to adjutant-general; also Lieut.-Col. Alexander O. Brodie of the Rough Riders, whose name is a household word in Arizona, who was the former colonel of the First Infantry Regiment, N.G.A." the report, "there were a large number

The following commissions were issued by the Governor of Arizona for officers in the United States Volunteers: In the First United States Volunteer Cavalry, Maj. Alexander O. Brodie, Capt. James H. Lamson.

Only 20 per cent. of the applicants for enlistment in the infantry were rejected for all causes, a percentage less than that of any other State or Territory. The guard has a strength of 505 officers and men; constituting one regiment of infantry, of ten companies and band, and the staff of the commanderin-chief. The proportion of guardsmen to population is five times greater than the average for the Union.

AN OLD BONANZA.

The old Vulture mine, sixty miles The old vulture mine, sixty mines northwest of Phoenix, is again to be worked on an extensive scale. A fifty-stamp mill is to be erected, water is to be brought from the Hassayampa River, and the mine is to be developed through new workings north of the great pit where the old drifts tumbled in years ago. The old mine has produced about $15,000,000 in gold, and is believed to be far from worked out. It closed operations when the flood from the bursting of the Walnut Creek dam took away its pipe line in the Hassayampa River. There is an old and valueless eighty-stamp mill on the ground. Almost the last work it did was to "work up" nearly all the houses in the deserted town of Vulture. The houses had been built for the most part of rock from the croppings of the Vulture lode, and their walls were found by an inquisitive assayer to be far richer than any ore left in the mine. The old workings northwest of Phoenix, is again to be walls were found by an inquisitive assayer to be far richer than any ore left in the mine. The old workings were almost exclusively in free-milling ore, and reached only 350 feet of depth. Below that the ledge matter is somewhat sulphuretic and refractory, and will require a somewhat more elaborate process for reduction.

John D. Benedict, superintendent of forest reserves for New Mexico and Arizona, has been in Phoenix several days, taking testimony relative to the effect grazing has upon the conservation of snow in the forest of the Grand Canon reserve. It has been assumed by the authorities at Washington that the outflow of water from the Grand Canon district has influence upon the supply of water for irrigation in the south central part of the Territory. This is, unhappily, not true. Every drop of outflow from the forestry reserve goes to the Colorado River, mainly by way of Cataract Creek, and thus can contribute in no way to the irrigation of 'Arizona's main valleys.

PRESCOTT MILITARY ANNEX.

PRESCOTT MILITARY ANNEX. PRESCOTT (Ariz.,) Feb. 10.—[Regular Correspondence.] Little doubt is now expressed that Whipple Barracks will soon be restored to activity. Since the organization of the Territorial government, in 1864, Prescott has had troops stationed within a mile of her Courthouse, and their departure was a decided loss to the mercantile interests of the city. Naturally no stone is being left unturned that the soldiers may be brought back. The main trouble lies in the fact that the buildings at Whipple can be occupied no longer, through are and that the water supply is decidedly inadequate. The latter objection is to be remedied through the new waterworks for which Prescott lately voted an issue of municipal bonds. Secretary Alger is reported to be favorable to the retention of the post and to the quartering there of a full regiment. Gen. Miles is known to favor abandonment. A new townsite has been established on the Verde River, below Jerome, where it is expected the reduction works of the United Verde Company will eventually be established. Jerome, however, has every appearance of permanency, and is moving toward the installation of a public water system. W. A. Clark, main owner of the mine, is interested in the scheme, and expresses his willingness to furnish a large portion of the coin required.

The rich ore discovered on the 500-foot level of the Crowned King mine has been drifted into for fifteen feet, and is still as large and as fabulously valuable as at first. The ten-inch veln is to be clearly traced above and below the drift, and its extent on either vertical or horizontal lines is utterly unknown.

"The grip left my system in a very weak state. I had fallen off in weight from 140 to 119 pounds. I called on my doctor to give me something to build me up. He advised me to try a change of climate and also gave me Hood's Sarsaparills, with the remark, 'that is the best,' and that I would not need any other medicine. After I had taken the first bottle I found myself greatly improved. I procured another bottle and also a box of Hood's Pills and I was soon perfectly well. I have since taken Hood's Sarsaparilla as a conic and blood medicine and have always found it good. My husband and little daughter have also taken it with benefit. A frightened woman rushed into the Police Station shortly before midnight Saturday and asked for an officer to search for her husband, who had run away from her in an endeavor to capaway from her in an endeavor to cap-ture a man who had attacked him on his doorstep. The woman was Mrs. George W. Zacharias, wife of a draughtsman in the City Engineer's office, and if the story she tells, which is also corroborated by her, husband, is true, the latter was the victim of a most peculiar and unusual circum-

Her husband went to the door, and, in response to a request, stepped out onto the porch to hear what his visitor had to say. The two had some words, and the stranger struck Zacharlas on the head with a piece of 2x4 scantling, inflicting a deep gash just above the left temple. The wounded man grappled with his assallant and, after securing the weapon, almed a blow at him, but missed the mark. The stranger ran across the street, and Zacharlas returned to the house. After securing his revolver, he started out, accompanied by his wife to either capture his assallant or find a policeman. He found the wielder of the 2x4 scantling across the street lying in front in the shade of a tree. Pointing his revolver at the prostrate figure, Zacharlas commanded him to get up or be killed. The stranger jumped up and started to sprint down Griffith avenue, with the victim of his attack in hot pursuit. This was the last Mrs. Zacharlas had seen of her husband up to the time she applied at the Police Station.

Officer Tom Rico was sent home with Mrs. Zacharlas, and upon arriving at that place found her husband with the wound in his head sewed up and bandaged. He told the rest of the story to the officer. Rico's story of what Zacharlas said is as follows:

After leaving his wife to pursue the assallant Zacharlas captured ine stranger and escorted him to a drug store at the corner of Twelfth street and Central avenue, where Dr. F. J. Kruell dressed his wound. Zacharlas requested the druggist to detain his prisoner until his injured head was dressed, but while the doctor was attending to him, Zacharlas deny knowing the identity of the former's assailant. but the man shows the wound in his head as evidence of the truth of the story. idence, at No. 1507 Griffith avenue

FUN FOR BOYS.

They Set Fire to Two Abandoned Oil Sump Holes.

An immense column of smoke called a large crowd of people to a field north of Westlake park about 4 o'clock yesterday, where it was apparent from all parts of town that a considerable quantity of oil was burning. The scene of the conflagration was that of an oil well which was abandoned about two years ago, and from which there must have been a considerable accumulation of petroleum in two sumpholes. It was stated that two boys were seen to run away from the spot just after the column of smoke was first noticed, and it appears that the boys had lighted the oil in fun and had secured more fun than they expected and became alarmed. There was no property near which could be damaged, and there was no less, while the spectacular features of the fire exceeded that of the average one in which a large amount of damage is done.

RUNS FROM HER ENEMIES Insane Woman Found on the Street

Two insane persons were taken into astody by the police yesterday, and oth were removed to the County Hos-tal. Mary Hastings Peterson was ound on First street shortly before noon. She was running through the thoroughfare in an endeavor to avoid maginary enemies, who she said were rying to kill her. The woman ob-ected to being taken charge of by Officer Richardson, saying that he was against her.

J. Fistner had a pleasant form of insanity, if such there be. When arrested at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the corner of Main and First streets he was offering to shake hands with every one who passed him. He declared that he was very happy, and that every one was his friend. Upon being taken to the Police Station by Officer Harris he greeted every one in the station whom he met, and was particularly profuse in his demonstration toward Clerk Gridley.

Man and Woman Arrested, Two persons giving the names of Mr. and Mrs. Quinn were arrested upon their arrival in Los Angeles on an early train from San Francisco yesterday morning. They are held at the Police Station pending the arrival of officers from Hanford, Kings county, who say that they are guilty of a felony. Detective Paul Flammer and Sergt, Smith arrested the couple in response to a telegram received from W. V. Buckner. When Buckner was notified of the arrest he wired a reply requesting that the prisoners he kept in custody until Monday, when he would come to Los Angeles for them. He was particularly anxious that all jewelry which they possessed be taken care of. and Mrs. Quinn were arrested upon

Louis C. Oft, who attempted to end his life, because a woman had filted him, is still a patient at the Receiving him, is still a patient at the Receiving Hospital. After taking three ounces of chloral hydrate Saturday, he regained consciousness early yesterday morning. He was reticent about his attempt to end his life, and is still very ill. Ott was formerly a messenger boy, and had been living with a fast woman for several weeks. She threw him over a few days ago, and this, with the loss of his money through gambling, caused his desperate act.

I have always enjoyed good health until about four years ago, when I began to be troubled with indigestion. Nothing I could get would give me permanent relief. I went from bad to worse. Night after night I would lie in bed tossing, rolling. My stomach being thus disordered, my blood became very impure, rheumatism took me in my feet and it was with great difficulty that I could walk. This was the state I was in about one year ago, when my attention was attracted by an advertisement of Ripans Tabules. The first Tabule gave me relief. When the entire package had been taken I found there was a marked improvement in my case. have made a new man of me. I would not be without them. The lameness has left my feet, so that I can walk almost as well as ever, although I am 64 years old.
